

Driving Assessment Services Directory

The driving assessment programs below (except St. Joseph's Health Centre) have two components: a clinical evaluation and an on-road evaluation. These programs require referral forms, which can be found on their websites.

The clinical evaluation entails an occupational therapist to generally assess the patient's cognitive skills, medical history, and driving history. This commonly takes one and a half hours to two hours.

The on-road evaluation will have a certified driving instructor, together with an occupational therapist, assess the patient's physical ability, cognitive/behavioural skills, visual/perceptual skills, and all responses to the traffic environments. This commonly takes one hour.
